

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA
ADMINISTRATIVE LAW COURT

NOTICE REGARDING DESTRUCTION OF EXHIBITS

The Administrative Law Court (Court) has determined, in consultation with the South Carolina Department of Archives and History, that certain records no longer serve any useful purpose and therefore no longer need to be retained by the Court.

THEREFORE, the Court hereby gives public notice of the following:

The Court has housed at its offices in Columbia, SC, multiple exhibits introduced by litigants in cases where the final decision has been issued and the time for appeal has elapsed or the appellate process has concluded. These exhibits that were introduced and retained by the Court are no longer needed for review. This notice applies to docket numbers beginning with calendar years 2006 through 2015, i.e., 06-ALJ-17-0001-CC through 15-ALJ-17-0588-CC.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the Clerk of Court is hereby authorized to destroy the exhibits as indicated above, unless the Court is notified by the introducing party within 30 days of this notice that they intend to retrieve the exhibit(s). Exhibits may be claimed by the party to whom the exhibit(s) belongs or by the party's attorney. Upon notice to the Clerk's Office, the exhibits may be retrieved from the Court at 1205 Pendleton St., Suite 224, Columbia, South Carolina.

AND IT IS SO ORDERED.
